The Republican National Convention.

We copy, from the N. Y. Courier & Enquirer, of Thursday last, December 22d, the following brief record of the doings of the Republican National Committee, which assembled in New York on the day previous:

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Delegates from the various States met yesterday at the Astor House, to appoint a time and place for the holding of the Republican National Convention for the nomination of a Presidential candidate. The meeting was private, except to a few friends accompanying the Delegates, and some prominent men of the party. Gov. Morgan presided. The delegates were composed of conservative, dignified men, and the best feeling and wisest sentiments prevailed. Everything like Abolitionism and John Brown sympathy was strongly repudiated, notwithstanding the speculations and false reports published in a certain malignant evening paper. There were five Slave States represented—Virginia had her representative in no less a personage than Alfred Caldwell, Ex-Mayor of Wheeling, and now one of the Virginia State Senators. He was accompanied by Mr. Underwood, another prominent Virginian, and both gentlemen strongly urged that Wheeling, Va., be the place selected for the Convention. This was supported by some other delegates, but opposed by the majority, on the ground that it might be misunderstood by Virginians generally. St. Louis, Baltimore, Indianapolis, Washington, Chicago and Buffalo were also advocated.

The delegates from the Slave States were as follows:—For Missouri, Mr. Jones; Virginia, Mr. Caldwell; Delaware, E. D. Williams, of Wilmington; Maryland, George Harris, merchant of Baltimore; Kentucky, Cassius M. Clay; District of Columbia, Lewis Clephane. From the other States as follows:—Maine, Joseph Bartlett; New Hampshire, Geo. C. Fogg; Massachusetts, John Z. Goodrich; Rhode Island, Wm. M. Chace; Connecticut, Gideon Welles; New York, Edwin D. Morgan; New Jersey, James T. Sherman; Pennsylvania, Thomas Spooner; Illinois, Norman B. Judd; Indiana, James Ritchie; Michigan, Zachariah Chandler; Iowa, J. R. Doolittle; Wisconsin, C. Schurz; Kansas, Martin F. Conway; Minnesota, Wm. A. Howard.

They met at 12 o'clock and were in session till a late hour last night.

Before adjournment, however, the Delegates agreed that the Convention should be held at Chicago on the 13th of June, 1860.—The Delegates meet again this morning, when the form of the call will be agreed upon.

U. S. Collector of Customs at St. Paul.

It has pleased the powers that be, to remove from the office of Deputy Collector and Inspector of Customs for the port of St. Paul, Mr. James Mills associate editor of the Pioneer and Democrat, who has held the office during the past two years. Mr. E. A. C. Hatch, of this city, will hereafter be the recipient of the emoluments of the office, and will perform its weighty and arduous duties.—St. Paul Pioneer and Dem. Dec. 21.

Another "victim of misplaced confidence." The Pioneer and Democrat is a strong DOUGLAS organ, evidently supposing that Freedom of Opinion was tolerated in the Democratic Party. Mr. MILLS loses his official head in consequence of his DOUGLAS proclivities. Who says the Democratic party are not a unit?

VERY LIKELY.—The Albany Journal speaking of the irruption of the Southern doctors from Philadelphia, thinks that 300 ignorant Doctors let loose in the South, might be as destructive of life as a "Brown invasion."

THE DETROIT MYSTERY.—The testimony before the Coroner's Inquest, discloses the fact that Mr. CAMPAU had been drinking freely, on the night of his disappearance, and was drowned, either by falling accidentally, or jumping intentionally, into the river.

"THE RAKE'S PROGRESS.—Hogarth's immortal illustration of "The Rake's Progress" may be deemed a fitting type of what some modern Hogarth will yet give to the world under the cognomen of "The Toady's Progress."

One Larrabee, a member of Congress from Wisconsin, justified Slavery the other day on the ground of the quality of the human race. As the negro is of a different blood and origin from the white, the latter is under no obligation to recognise as applicable to the former, the Divine injunctions of humanity and brotherhood.

Gathering courage from this irrational and infidel sentiment, Brooks, at the Union meeting Monday night, justified Slavery because the Saviour approved of it it in his day!—This piece of rank blasphemy received further approval than rebuke from the clergyman who spoke after him!

And O'Connor, the lion of the evening, ambitious to dive deeper and come up filthier than any Northern man who had ever gone before him, declaring Slavery to be a just and benign ordination of nature, which should be perpetual!

After these strides in the downward path of infidelity, blasphemy and injustice, the mincing words of Hunt, Thayer, and Dix seem like very stupid specimens of inane toadyism. But they all point a moral, and properly placed, would help fill up the picture of "Toady's Progress."—Albany Jour.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.—Captain Samuel J. Hudson, an old citizen of Chicago and for several years engaged in sailing upon the Lakes, has been mysteriously absent from his family and the knowledge of his friends since the 24th of November. At that time he was Captain of the schooner Telegraph. He wrote to his wife, who was last fall at her brother's in Wisconsin, to meet him here on the 10th of December. She came at the time appointed, but her husband was not here, nor could the most diligent search at that time and since then, produce any intelligence of him. The last time he was seen was on the evening of the 24th of November, at the Saloon and Dance House of O'Riely, on North Water Street. It has been ascertained that at the time of his disappearance, the Captain had between four and five hundred dollars with him. He was 39 years old, dark complexion, nearly black hair, sprinkled lightly with gray, blue eyes, whiskers all around his face, and was dressed when last seen, in a dark sack coat, and dark pantaloons. On one of his arms, imprinted with india Ink, were the letters "S. W. S."—his wife's initials—and under these two small hearts.—Chicago Dem., 24.

A PRESBYTERIAN LADY EMBRACES THE JEWISH FAITH.—On Saturday morning last, an occurrence took place in the Synagogue of the Congregation Emanuel, in Twelfth street, New York, which truly can be said belongs to the exceptions of religious life.—It was no less than the reconsitation of the christian faith by a lady, educated in the principles of the Presbyterian Church, and her conversion to the Jewish Religion.

It appears that the lady in question, Mrs. Silbermann, has been married some time to an Israelite, and having besides a great desire to be ranked among the daughters of Isreal, she some time since applied to the Rev. Dr. Adler, the Rabbi of the above congregation, to be admitted. It being against the principles of Judahism to make proselytes, the Rev. Dr. did not encourage her at first, but after long entreaty on her part, and Dr. Adler seeing that her motives were pure and disinterested, instructed her some time in the principles of the Reformed Jewish Religion, and she was accordingly publicly admitted on Saturday morning.

THE CITY.

Merry Christmas!

Without the door let sorrow lie,
And if by chance it hap to die,
We'll bury it in a Christmas pie,
And ever more be merry.

"Christmasses ain't what they used to was," remarked one of the charcoal characters of NEAL; and as Uncle BILLY CRAMER would say, it does not require a great deal of foresight to perceive the truth of the assertion. Even in merry Old England, the demands of the age have rendered the former pleasant extension of the celebration too great an exaction, and Christmas shrunk to a yearly plum-pudding, a pantomime and a holiday frolic for the children. These festivities at one time, lasted with more or less brilliancy till Candlemas, and with great spirit till Twelfth Night, but now, a meeting in the evening, little different from a common dinner party, though sure to be marked by a roast and a plum-pudding, and pretty generally followed by a game of cards, is all that distinguishes Christmas in most English families.

In former times, the celebration of Christmas began in the latter part of the preceding day. The house was first decked with holly, ivy, and other evergreens. Candles of an uncommon size were then lighted under the name of Christmas candles; an enormous log, called the "Yule Clog," or Christmas Block, was laid upon the fire; and the people sat round regaling themselves. In the course of the night, small parties of songsters went about, from house to house, singing what were called "Christmas Carols"—simple popular ditties, full of joyful allusions to the great gift from God to man, in the Redeemer. A mass was commenced in the churches at midnight—a custom still kept up in the Catholic Church. At one period the people had a custom of was sailing the fruit trees on this evening—that is they took a wassail bowl, threw a toast from it to the tree and sung a song, expecting thus to secure a good crop of fruit the next season. It was thought that, during the night, all water was for a short time changed to wine, and that bread baked on this eve would never become mouldy. These notions, though essentially foolish, were all well meant adornations of the simple spirit of the people, that should not be hastily condemned. Shakspeare's allusion to a beautiful superstition of Christmas night, is familiar to all:

Some say, that ever 'gainst that season come
Whereon our Saviour's birth is celebrated,
The bird of dawning singeth all night long;
And then, they say, no spirit can walk abroad;
The nights are wholesome; then no planet strikes,
No fairy takes, nor witch hath power to charm,
So gracious and so hallowed is the time.

We are no iconoclasts; we love all the beautiful imagery of our Father, and would not throw down the least reverenced saint in the calendar. There is an immense deal of piety, benevolence and poetry associated with our observance of the 25th of December, and it seems like sacrilege to dispute the authenticity of the day; and yet, Dr. ADAM CLARKE goes very far towards establishing the fact that our Saviour was born in May instead of December. We have no room here for his arguments, but one thing is historically certain, viz: that the festival was appointed arbitrarily by pope Telesphorus about A. D., 137 in the church, and had ever since been commemorated on the 25th of December. St. Clement, the earliest father, according to St. Epiphanius, fixed the birth of Christ on the 18th of November in the 28th year of Augustus i. e. two years before the Christian Era was adopted in the sixth century.

But Christmas, aside from its sacred character, is one of our few holidays, and there is no one who would be willing to have it stricken out of the meagre list. It is preeminently a social day, for which the man for a few hours deigns to lay aside manly duties for fraternal intercourse. Perhaps on no other occasion is the bow so completely unbent and the callous heart opened to the jocund voices of childhood. The intellect is unharnessed; the will leaves its executive throne, and we are content to revel in the reflected happiness of our children, and to go about wishing peace and good-will in a condensed "Merry Christmas" to every body.

What pleasanter scrap can we offer you on this morning than that old Christmas feasting song by the fine old poet GEORGE WITHER:

"Lo! now is come our joyfull'st feast,
Let every man be jolly,
Each room with ivy leaves is drest,
And every post with holly;
Now all our neighbors chimneys smoke,
And Christmas blocks are burning,
Their ovens they with baked meats choke,
And all their spits are turning.
Without the door let sorrow lie;
And if for cold it hap to die,
We'll bury it in a Christmas pie,
And ever more be merry.

Now every lad is wondrous trim,
And no man minds his labor;
Our lasses have provided them
A bagpipe and a tabor.
Rank misers now do sparing shun,
Their halls with music soundeth;
And dogs thence with whole shoulders run,
So all things there aboundeth.
The country folks themselves advance
For Crowdy muttons come out of France,
And Jack shall pipe and Jill shall dance,
And all the town be merry.

SANTA CLAUS UTTERS A COMPLAINT.—SANTA CLAUS arrived in town on Saturday evening, and just before we got to press, came in to see us and to make a complaint. He wants to know how he is to get into the houses now-a-days! He says he finds no fire places, now and then a stove-pipe hole, but often that is covered up with a tin-stopper. The old gentleman talked of the matter good-humoredly, and told us that a good many years ago, our people used to take as much pride in their hearth-stones and fireplaces as the Scotch do in their "ingle-side," and that patriotism seemed to be fostered on the hearth-stone, and ever after to regard it as one of the sacred things to be defended with one's blood: "But," said the old gentleman, "you can no longer strike for your altars and your fire-sides, you will have to arouse your young men by appeals to their furnaces and registers."

"Strike, freemen strike
For your hot air furnaces
And registers!"

MASONIC FESTIVAL.—The Grand Masonic Festival at their new Hall on West Water St., takes place TO-MORROW evening. The doors will be open at at half past seven precisely, and guests are desired to be in attendance as early as eight o'clock, to avoid any interruption of the ceremonies. Carriages are free. Persons wishing conveyances will please send their orders to BUTLER and PORT. After the dedication, a social entertainment will be given, and the two spacious Halls thrown open to enjoyment. The supper is under the supervision of the best artists in town, and altogether, we anticipate the most brilliant and successful of fetes ever given in this city.

LADIES' FAIR TO-NIGHT.—The Ladies, of the Welsh Congregational Church, hold a Fair to-night, at Sivyer's Hall, on Main Street, below Huron. Music by the noted Welch Choir, of Racine. Supper by the Ladies. The Festival is for the benefit of the Church, and we trust will be largely attended.

PERSONAL.—CLINTON WALWORTH, formerly Police Justice of this city, returned to Milwaukee from the East the latter part of last week. He looks well, and is a striking evidence of the salubrity of visits in general and Eastern visits in particular.

OUR CAROL.

Here we come, patrons, with voices most affable,
Boldly to play on a holiday string,
Something that's pleasant without being laughable,
Something without a political ding.
And add our small voice, when all Christians rejoice
On the day of their choice—the Nativity morn;
Our rancours to bury—in water or sherry,
And duly make merry—that a Saviour was born.

Just a year has gone by with all its diversity,
Sorrow and joys and pleasures and pains,
Now we hailed fortune and now old Adversity,
Counting our alternate losses and gains.
The frosty old year, through the yellow and sear,
Has come to us here with most musical swells,
And we'll all long remember our jolly December,
With the glow of its embers and song of its bells.

To take a look backward will not be injurious,
Flowers lie scattered along the wide sands,
And bequets of memory always are curious,
Brought from the valleys of once travelled lands.
We got over erection without much deflection,
And hail the election of Freedom's new head;
With something of pride in, its proof of abiding,
When those who are aiding with error, are dead.

Life has been mottled with greatest variety,
All through the changes of old Fifty-nine,
And though we've had crosses and some contrariety,
Being Good Templars, we're not going to whine,
One day shall be jolly, though the rest were all folly,
And trimmed with the holly and myrtle and pine,
Hearts that are saddest shall wear a green gladness,
And trip with the maddest to music divine.

Hard times were heard of in items most pitiful,
Feeding the poor and the needy with gall,
Where riches and poverty made a great city full,
Here it came not, was scarce thought of at all,
And no one can tell us of ought that befel us,
That should ever compell us to sigh or to moan,
And those who are sighing and talk of our dying
By inches, and crying, should look how we've grown.

All through the seasons of sunshine and rain
Since the last Christmas, we've stood at your door,
And the first break of morning has seen you again
Welcome us in as so often before.
To tell of conventions and Southern dissentions,
Of hasty make mentions of shipwreck and woe,
Of horse racing winners, and Newhall House dinners,
And Police Court sinners, sent where they should go.

Of new books just published in dreadful infinity,
Rail Road disasters—and heart-rending smash,
Of some wonderful artist or recent divinity,
Troubles in cotton, and mercantile crash.
Lecturers odious, and singers melodious,
And that dreadful Clodious stealing his way,
Through towering paragraphs, much as young male giraffes,
Stretch out their necks and quaff, thinking it play,
Air out of Heaven with which they may leaven,
So help us the Seven—their mephrodite bray.

We told you of marriages, fires and seductions,
Of times out of joint that were set without pain,
Of wonderful pumpkins and Badger productions,
And told you a lie now and then, to be plain;
—Told of papers that sprung up, and soon that were hung up,
Of eloquence wrung up to politic's side,
Of kings that just mizzled, not reigned, and then drizzled,
Of papers that sizzled and fizzled and died.

Europe is teeming with matters combustible,
And soon she may light with a terrible blaze,
The French and the English are neither quite trustable
And Ireland presents a remarkable phase.
Patrick now tends to his church and wends he to
His morning prayer meetings, or its hard to tell which,
Forgetting the daily enjoyment, done gaily—
The whack of shillalah and hickory switch.

But what do we care for the fuss o'er the water—
The soft light of Peace and prosperity guides us;
We've nothing to do with commotion and slaughter,
Unless Gov. Wise should succeed, and divide us.
Let us hope that the manna, Union-saving Hosannah,
And Star Spangled Banner of Northern mass meetings
Will soften his heart and remove the hot smart
That seems to impart such lamentable bleatings.

We've nothing to keep us from singing Old Hundred,
And plain merry-making discarding all fears,
For in spite of the voices that recently thundered,
The Union will last for a number of years.
Then join the song every gal—Charley and little Sal—
Welcome the SENTINEL, pudding and goose.
Let sugar plums long prevail—ven'son and pale cream ale—
All but a Christmas Ball—go to the deuce.

Lift up your eyelids fair tutular Ceres
Over the car loads of grain that come in;
Smile your benignest old Potiphar Peres—
Complacently jingle your pockets of tin.
Commerce scouts the embargo of envious Chicago,
And pays us per cargo a trifle ahead;
And that great wicked city (now ain't it a pity,)
Retaliates, witty, by blazing we're dead.

Chaunt, then, a poem of thankfullness cheerily—
Heap the huge coals 'till the parlor's a-glow;
And the Christmas tree blooms with a sparkle most ruddily,
And dainties blush warmly, like sun-tinted snow.
Touch the piano, and raise your soprano
In a real hurricane of boisterous delight;
We'll have old merry making, and wholesome side shaking,
But nothing that's akin to sorrow, to-night

Spread the great table with delicate dishes;
Pull down the stockings with juvenile glee—
Filled to o'erflowing for youngsters and Misses
With the creamiest bon bons one ever did see.
On what a rare night will the SENTINEL light
All to-day and to-night, in its round-a-bout spree—
Such cracking of jokes, by old and young folks,
Such relief from the yokes of formalities plea!

Health and wealth, with content and tranquility,
Be your portion, we wish it, through life;
May your pleasures and works of utility
Never be marred by the lovers of strife,
May sorrows be parried, the youthful get married,
And you who have tarried till late in the day,
Fix up your things all, prepare for a pleasant call,
And go to the Newhall to dinner to-day.

Long may happiness, peace and prosperity
Attend on your earthly career,
Friends and kindred with hearts of sincerity,
Spouse and children more tender and dear,
And when the scene closes, may pillows of roses
Afford such repose as tired nature demands,
While hearts are here aching, a brighter day breaking
Shall find you awaking in happier lands.

And now friends indulgent our own periodical
Merits a mention or two by the way,
Where will you find one so pure and methodical,
When one that suits you so well every day;
With its poems and leaders, and items for readers,
But a list there's no need of, you very well know,
You can't do without it, we none of us doubt it,
Old "SIXTY" will shout it with next winter's snow.

Sojhere's to all, young, aged and pretty,
May all who are single get married instanter,
Our hand to the grave, the sedate and the witty,
(We've cordial for all from a hygean decanter.)
Let us join the "fantastic," with spirits elastic,
Our long campaign has reached the last line,
Singing only one stave, o'er the land of the brave,
May the SENTINEL wave, till the ending of time.

MUNICIPAL COURT, DEC. 24.—John Shine, stealing a coat from Seeger & Co. Sent to jail for thirty days.

Augustus Brant, stealing a coat from the same place. Discharged.

Johanna Schroeder, stealing from Hoffman's, found guilty. Sentence suspended.

Frederika Adler, stealing from Hoffman's, case to be tried to-day.

Louisa Brant, disorderly, fined $5,00 and costs.

Joseph Straw, soliciting passengers without a badge; fined $10,00.

Joseph Webber, disorderly, discharged.

SKATES FOR LADIES.—The handsomest assortment of skates we have ever seen, are at the store of H. J. NAZRO & Co. Those manufactured expressly for the ladies are especially worthy of commendation. They are elegant in shape and would set off the neatest foot and ankle to advantage.

Messrs. NAZRO & Co. have also on hand, a very large and well selected assortment of mens' and boys' skates.

DINNER AT THE NEWHALL.—Remember the Christmas Dinner at the Newhall House at 4 o'clock. Messrs. KEAN & RICE will astonish the natives with their researches into an almost boundless larder. We would suggest, as the occasion will be sure to call together all the beauty and "shiverly" of the town, that the occasion be further lengthened out by a Newhall Hop.

VAN COTT'S JEWELRY.—Our neighbor opposite, VAN COTT, has filled his large store with appropriate gifts, in jewelry, for the Holidays. His stock is the largest and richest that he has ever brought to Milwaukee—Go and see his display.

THE STEAMSHIP MILWAUKEE arrived here from Grand Haven at 2 o'clock on Saturday morning, ploughing her way through eight inches of ice up the river without difficulty, and after taking in coal, went on to Chicago, where she goes into dry dock for inspection and what repairs she may need. She started with the tug McQueen, but very soon left that little craft to make her way across the Lake without company. If it was not for the paint being rubbed off in some places, the Milwaukee looked none the worse for her four weeks rough-and-tumble on the beach at Grand Haven, and we presume a few days in the hands of the shipwrights will make her as good as new. Her engine was kept at work all the time she was on the beach, and none of her machinery sustained any damage whatever.

As soon as her hull is put to rights at Chicago, she will proceed to Grand Haven, to undergo the same alterations that have been made in the Detroit, so that she will not take her place, in the line, for about a month, but the Detroit, it is expected, will be ready for business within two weeks, and before the end of January, the Lake Ferry will be again in full operation.

We have heard it stated, by men of experience in such matters, that there is not another vessel on the whole chain of Lakes, sail or steam, excepting her consort, that could have withstood what the Milwaukee underwent at Grand Haven, without going to pieces, and what was designed by the vile wretches who plotted the destruction of the Milwaukee, to kill the route, will do more towards establishing confidence in the fine steamers that compose the line, than anything else that could have happened.

GOD BLESS IT.—The Festival for the benefit of St. Mary's Hospital will be opened next Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 28th, and continue through the afternoon and evening.

There is no institution that deserves better at our hands than this. Its merits are too widely known and appreciated to need any mention here; and its perfectly lady-like managers, the Sisters of Charity, are so well beloved as ministering angels, that for us to praise them would add but little to their high name.

Their Hospital is always open to the sick and wounded of every tongue and creed, whether stranger or well known, rich or poor, and none are ever slighted on account of their inability to pay.

The present indebtedness of St. Mary's Hospital should not be allowed to remain, especially when we can so easily contribute toward defraying it, and at the same time receive the enjoyment that may be expected at a festival conducted by the Sisters of Charity.

SAD ACCIDENT.—HENRY TOWNSEND, freight conductor on the Milwaukee and Mississippi R. R., while engaged in coupling the cars at Milton on Saturday, accidentally fell beneath the wheels and had both his legs crushed. Mr. TOWNSEND is well known in this city, and the accident will occasion much grief among a large circle of friends.

A CARD.—The undersigned, on behalf of the Third Ward Episcopal Mission Sunday School, would return his sincere thanks to the legion of friends who, by their donations and presence, contributed to make the Festival one long to be remembered by fathers and children.

On behalf of the School.

T. B. KEMP, Sup't.

THE WEATHER.—Saturday night old Winter laid his finger on the mercury, pressed it down, down, and after the stores closed, and everybody went home with their Christmas presents, it seemed to be growing still colder. With such a temperature our sleighing bids fair to last till New Year's.

CRUMMEY'S PRIZE BEEF will be ready for customers this (holiday) week. He is booking the orders fast. Those who wish to taste something extra would do well to be on hand.

WE THINK IT A CAPITAL SUGGESTION that a most sensible way of manifesting a thoughtful affection for a wife and family is to make a holiday present of a policy of Life Insurance, and would urge our readers to step into the office of our Wisconsin Company and get one. dec22d6t

SUPERIOR CONFECTIONERY.—We are indebted to Mr. JAMES HETH, on Eighth street, between Sycamore and Clybourn streets, for a choice assortment of mixed candies. Mr. HETH informs us that he superintends personally, the manufacture of all candies made in his establishment; uses the best stock that can be obtained, and sells the same for twenty-five cents per pound. Those wishing choice candies for the holidays will save money by giving him a call. dec23jl50d1w

TELEGRAPH!

REPORTED BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS FOR THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Later from California.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—8 P. M.

The steamship Baltic arrived at her dock at 11 o'clock. She left Aspinwall on the evening of the 7th inst., with $1,000,000 treasure.

The trip through from San Francisco was made in 13 days and 20 hours.

The U. S. mails and passengers, which left New York Dec. 5th, in the Northern Light, were lying at Panama when the Baltic sailed.

California news is mostly anticipated.

The steamers Uncle Sam and Golden Gate were to sail for Panama on the 5th, with about 700 passengers.

The Golden Gate has $1,400,821 in treasure, and it is believed some $800,000 goes forward in the form of government drafts.

Money has come in sparingly from the country. Market kept easy by a better supply in the hands of capitalists.

Trade has been dull for the past fortnight, and extremely depressed.

Gen. Kibbee has succeeded in capturing over 600 of the Pitt River Indians, comprising almost the entire tribe, who made so much trouble in the northern part of the State. They are to be placed on Pijon Reservation, in southern California.

Advices from Guatemala state that Mr. Beverly Clark, Minister to that country, had protested energetically against the terms of the treaty recently entered into between England and Guatamala, it being a violation of the Clayton and Bulwer treaty.

Mr. Dimitry, our minister to Costa Rica, was at last accounts at Nicaragua, sick of a fever.

The Yacht: Wanderer Again.

BOSTON, Dec. 24—3 P. M.

The yacht Wanderer, of Savannah, Capt Welton, from Flores, has arrived here.—Welton reports that she sailed from Savannah, Ga., in October, in charge of Captain Martin, for the coast of Africa for a cargo of slaves, and that she touched at Flores and took on board two Portuguese women. Capt. Martin subsequently went ashore to get provisions, taking with him the chronometer and charts. In his absence, Mr. Welton, the mate, got under way, and steered for the coast of America. He made Fire Island first, and put into Tarpaulin cove for a pilot.—Welton states that he was carried off without his will from Savannah, and that Martin was an assumed name, and that his real name is Lincoln P. Hutten, of Bath, Maine. The yacht is in charge of the United States Marshal.

BY LAST NIGHT'S REPORT

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24—9 P. M.

HOUSE.—Mr. Fowlke proceeded to state that the Republican party had no sympathy for foreigners, but have deluded them, and as soon as they have done with them, they will not only put them on an equality with the negro, but go further, and ignore them altogether in political action. He referred to a conversation between Gov. Seward of N. Y., and Gov. Smith, of Va., in 1847 and in 1848, as reported in the Congressional Globe. Smith, of Va., narrated the conversation referred to as well as he could recollect it.—The substance of it was, that while he was Governor of Va, he was sitting in the Council Chamber one day, when a stranger entered and introduced himself as Mr. Seward, of New York. A conversation ensued in course of which Mr. Seward remarked that they were going to allow all to vote in New York—negroes as well as whites.

To that he (Mr. Smith) had replied that if they had no objection to free negroes in N. Y., they would send them a certain number in every packet from Va.

Mr. Seward said he had no objections to that. They would receive them with pleasure. They had much trouble with Irishmen and the Irish votes. A good deal of money had been spent in election times to secure them, and the rascals would take their money and then vote against them, but they had no such trouble with the colored people.

In reply to that he (Mr. Smith) then told him he would be very happy to receive an equal number of honest-hearted Germans and Irishmen in exchange for all the negroes sent to N. Y.

Mr. Foulke resumed, said Republican party were not yet ready to engraft that creed upon New York; they were not yet done with foreign population.

Smith, of Virginia, obtained the floor, but yielded for fifteen minutes to Mr. Farnsworth, to reply to his colleague.

Farnsworth said Brown was dead, and they made no issue about recent affairs at Harper's Ferry, which the Republican party nowhere endorsed, so far as the Republican party were concerned. They did not believe in social or political equality of the negro or any other equality, so far as Illinois was concerned. In the State of New York the negro was permitted to vote, and in the State of Tennessee, he was permitted to vote; but a very few years ago, he thought, when Hon. Carl Johnson, was member of Congress, he himself said, that he was indebted to that class of votes for his seat.

Mr. Avery of Tennessee (from the back ground)—What member was that?

Mr. F.—Hon. Carl Johnson. It came with a very bad grace from the Democratic party to throw up to the Republican party that they were in favor of the political equality of the negro.

Mr. Logan—Is there in your District no distinction between negroes and white people? Do they all vote together. Mr. F. did not know; so far as the question of social equality was concerned, the Republican party did not believe nor maintain it, but Republicans required no laws restraining them from intermarrying with negroes; if his friends were at all afraid of intermarrying, he would be very glad to impose a restraining law.

Mr. Logan asked whether the Republican Legislature of Illinois had not voted for abrogation of all laws in reference to distinction between whites and blacks as regarded their testimony in courts.

Mr. Farnsworth admitted that a Republican member had introduced such a law. If he did not he ought to have done it.

Mr. Logan—Exactly. Did not the Republican members of the last Legislature vote to expunge the word white from the School law so as to make it read white and black?

Mr. Farnsworth did not know. In his State they admitted a man who did not believe in a God to testify; also a man covered with pollution, and he could not see why they should exclude the negro; but it was the true test to submit the credibility of a witness to the jury where they sued. A man assaulted and wronged by a villainous Democratic white man, a Democratic doughface, should; be permitted to testify. He said it was a damnable statute that prevented him. Was the gent satisfied?

Logan—If the gent is satisfied.

Farnsworth—How is Democracy?

Logan—Very well. (Laughter.)

Farnsworth then reviewed the course of Judge Douglas in reference to the Territorial question, contending that he (Douglas) had placed himself on both sides of the question. The Republican party was founded on principles; but the Democratic party of Illinois was a man worshipping party, worshiping Douglas. Whatever Douglas said was law. And right here he would ask his colleague if he agreed.

Foulke—We worship Stephen A. Douglas, and you worship Fred Douglas. (Great laughter.)

F. then inquired whether his colleague from the Fifth District and his party in Illinois would support whoever was nominated, at Charleston, no matter what platform.

Morris, of Illinois, had no desire to be drawn into the conversation which had been held with his colleague; he had no doubt that the Charleston Convention would adopt Cincinnati platform—and he had no doubt Douglas would support its nominee.

F.—That's no answer.

Morris—Then, sir, I will say that they will.

F. rejoined that Douglas had declared that he would not accept a nomination, unless he were placed upon a platform that conceded the right of a territorial legislature to legislate upon the subject of slavery.

Morris—We consider all that our business, not yours.

F., in reply, held that it was also business of republicans, and asked with what consistency Douglas could support the nominee of Charleston, even upon a platform upon which he would not himself be a candidate.

Mr. Smith of Va, then proceeded to address the House. In consequence of a course of remarks indulged in by the gent from Pennsylvania, (Grow) he felt it his duty to take his part.

The country was startled with amazement when it was seen that some members of the last Congress, besides numerous other gents of the highest position had endorsed a pamphlet known as Helper's pamphlet, inaugurating a crusade of blood and insurrection against one of the largest sections of the Union. What had been the first development? One of the very gentlemen who endorsed this book had been put in nomination as presiding officer of the House. That officer must sustain most intimate personal and social relations with members over whose deliberations he presides.

He asked the house and country if they would rightfully and truly perform their great social and political duty by electing that man to preside over this body. He put question here, and he desired the country to understand it. They may have power by force of numbers to put a man who is a murderer, a robber who proclaims his deadly hostility to one-half of the Union, in that chair. But I ask them if it is right if they will stand as the representatives of constitutional liberty on this floor.

Sherman, (with composure, but with signs of a storm)—I desire to know if the gent, from Virginia, applies these words to me.

Mr. Smith (quickly)—I am illustrating; I did not say that the gent is a murderer. I have no such thought in mind and was about to say so and it would have come with more grace than from an interruption.

Mr. Sherman—(with a satisfied air)—I misunderstood the gent.

Mr. Smith—(imperiously) I was illustrating. Would you vote for a murderer?

Mr. Sherman—(rather eagerly) certainly not.

Mr. Smith—If the act of a party—

Curtis (very much excited)—I call the gentleman to order. I consider that a reflection upon the members on this floor. It impeaches the honor of every man on this side of the House, and I ask the gentleman to recall it.

Smith (firmly)—When I have anything to recall, I will do it without being asked.—(Applause in the galleries.) If the gentleman will just keep cool he will, perhaps, fare all the better for it. I charged nobody with being murderers or robbers upon this floor, but I do charge that, when we came here, we found that sixty-eight members of the last Congress, many of them now here, did endorse a pamphlet according to what we had a right to believe and suppose was just as bad and as damnable. (Cries of good and applause in the galleries.)

The Clerk said that he gave notice yesterday that if the rules of the House were again violated by applause in the galleries, he would call upon the officers of the House to suppress it, in accordance therewith, be called upon the Sergeant-at-arms and the door-keeper to perform their duty.

Here ensued a scene of confusion, many members crying out "clear the galleries," whilst others hoped such a course would not be pursued. In the galleries a commotion could be observed, and one middle-aged, respectable gent, exclaimed loudly, "I will leave it," and made his way through the dense throng, whilst the sergeant-at-arms passed at a rapid pace out of the main door of the House to intercept him. Finally order was restored.

The Clerk stated that it was not his intention to have the galleries cleared, as many orderly persons occupied them, but simply to preserve order.

The business of the House then proceeded.

Mr. Smith said he was proceeding to illustrate the position that had been taken by the Democrats and had used strong figures of speech for the purpose of making it in a way from which there could be no escape, and then vindicate the Democratic side of the House from the reproaches cast upon them from time to time, of trifling with the organization of their body.

The discussion was continued at some length. At the close of the discussion, the House took a ballot for Speaker, which resulted in no choice. Adjourned.

THE SENTINEL.

DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY & WEEKLY.

RUFUS KING, EDITOR.

MONDAY MORNING, DEC. 26, 1859.

After Gov. Morgan.

It appears that the Grand Jury of Wilson County, N. C., have learned that the Governor of New York is obnoxious to their notions, as well as to the peace and dignity of that State, and consequently pay their respects to him in the following manner:

The attention of the undersigned has been especially called to the publication of a compendium of a work styled "The Impending Crisis," said to be the work of one Hinton R. Helper. This vile work has for its object the excitement of insurrection. It advocates the confiscation of property, and it counsels a class of ourselves to commit the high crime of treason to North Carolina, by uniting in this conspiracy for a war and revolution.

A recommendation of this publication is signed by one Edwin D. Morgan of the State of New York, and by other citizens of that State, and by over fifty members of Congress, who are sworn to support the Constitution. We present that this participation in the circulation of this incendiary work, by putting forth of a single copy in this State, will be a violation of our laws, and will subject the said Edwin D. Morgan and his associates to indictment and punishment; and we invoke his Excellency, the Governor, in such event, to demand the said Edwin D. Morgan and his associates residing in New York, of the Governor of that State, that he and they may be brought to trial.

The Buffalo Express congratulates Gov. MORGAN upon the distinguished honor paid him by North Carolina, and proposes that, in return for this civility, he invite the Governor of North Carolina to dine with him on New Year's Day, and thus restore harmony between the two States.

Look to the Senate.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Dec. 21.

The telegraph announces the following Committees in the Senate. Mr. Mason remains as chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs; Mr. Clay do. on Commerce; Mr. Yulee do. on Post Office; Mr. Green do. on Territories; Mr. Mallory do. on Naval Affairs; Mr. Bayard do. on the Judiciary, and Mr. Brown do. on the District of Columbia.

These constitute all the important Committees of that body, enough to control the entire legislation of the country, and it will be seen that the South have got them all. So far as the organization of that body is concerned, there is "no North, no East, no West."—It is all South, SOUTH, SOUTH! Sectionalized, the Committees stand thus:

Foreign affairs—Mason, of Va	SOUTH.
Commerce—Clay, of Ala.	SOUTH.
Post Offices—Yulee, of Fla	SOUTH.
Territories—Green, of Mo.	SOUTH.
Naval Affairs—Mallory, of Fla	SOUTH.
Judiciary—Bayard, of Del.	SOUTH.
Dist. of Columbia—Brown, of Miss.	SOUTH.

This makes a pretty showing up to the country of Southern cleanliness and sectionalism. By cottoning and sugaring together in Congress and Conventions, the South, by a unity of action, incited by a unity of interests, have so far controlled Presidents and party issues, as to put the Democracy of the North, East and West in false positions before the people. The result has been to drive the Democrats from the Free States out of Congress, not being able to stand on Southern platforms and cope with Northern Opposition. Every turn of the Southern thumb-screw upon the Northern Democracy has decimated their numbers; so far as the Democratic party is concerned, the South have undisputed control in both branches of Congress.

We are glad to meet with one Northern Democratic paper that is not afraid to rebuke the sectional and grasping spirit manifested in the management of the Senate Committee. As yet, however, we are sorry to say, not a single Democratic paper in this State has uttered a sylable in condemnation of "Southern clannishness and sectionalism."

State of the Departments—The Organization.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Express.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.

An immense pressure is brought upon the House to secure organization by some of the Executive Departments. The Postmaster General, I understand, says that if the organization does not take place within a week or before the next mail lettings, the contracts will rest the Government a million of dollars more than they would if the bids have been made previous to organization. The mail contractors and others in the meantime are great sufferers from the present delay in meeting the millions of past indebtedness.

Notwithstanding this condition of public affairs, the disorganizing Democracy persist in their factious course and do everything in their power to prevent the organization of the House. There can be no possible excuse or justification for their conduct, and the people will hold them to a strict account for it.

Kansas not to be Admitted.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger writes as follows:

"I learn from Democratic Senators that Kansas will not be admitted as a State this session, with the boundaries proposed in her State Constitution. They object to cutting off the Pike's Peak region, and to the consequent erection into another Territory and State."

This "boundary" objection is a mere pretext. The real reason for the Democratic opposition to the admission of Kansas is, that she comes into the Union Free and Republican.

No PANIC IN WALL STREET.—In United States Coupon Fives of 1874 there were sales at 103.

The State Stocks were steady, with a fair demand.—Commercial Report.

Is it not strange that when the Union is going down, the Stocks of the Union should go up? If the one should be dissolved, the other would not be worth a dollar. And yet every dollar's worth of them now fetches $1,08, and in some cases $1,08!

Evidently the cry of "Disunion," resounding in the Halls of Congress and from behind the footlights of the Academy of Music, is not believed in Wall street. Or else the Merchants and Bankers there think it will do the Union good to be dissolved. Surely they would not buy, at a premium, the bonds of a concern which they believed to be on the verge of bankruptcy? Which shall we believe, actions or words?

A SENSIBLE MAN IN ALABAMA.—In the Alabama Senate, the Hon. Mr. BULLOCK, urging the adoption of Disunion resolutions, said:

"If the South should delay and wait for an overt act, venal papers and men would spring up in the South within a short time to advocate giving a fair trial to the Black Republican Administration, and to hold office under it. The policy of that Administration would be to give more offices to Southern than to Northern men. It would be shrewd enough to work in such a way as to keep the South divided, and prevent Southern unity. It would not commit any overt act."

That must be the most sensible Bullock in all Alabama.

THE CREDIT OF THE EMPIRE STATE.—The State of New York has just effected a loan of two and a half millions of dollars—payable in three equal instalments, in 1868, 1875 and 1876—at an average premium of about five per cent. The bidders were numerous and included most of the leading Bankers of the Empire State. Evidently the capitalists are not a bit scared by the "Disunion" cry, raised by the Democratic "Agitators" at Washington and echoed by their Doughface allies in the North.

HUMORS OF THE UNION SAVERS.—The N. Y. Express chronicles this among the other proceedings of the "Union Meeting" in New York:

A TRIO OF NOTABLES BURNED IN EFFIGY.—At 9 o'clock an effigy was seated in an old chair and burned in front of the Academy.—A placard conspicuously placed near by, explained the affair as follows:

"Seward, Greeley, Cheever—three in one. May they all perish as did John Brown."

KEEPING AN EYE OPEN TO BUSINESS.—A notice asking for signatures to the call for a Union Meeting in New York contains the following paragraph:—

It is unnecessary to point out to business men, especially those seeking for Southern trade, the immense advantages which will result from their names appearing prominently connected with this great patriotic and conservative movement. A large extra edition of the papers containing an account of the proceedings will be printed especially for circulation among Southern merchants.

EPIDEMIC IN THE OHIO PENITENTIARY.—The Cleveland papers state that two hundred convicts are now sick in the Ohio Penitentiery, with what is denominated cornbread diarrhœa. The disease has assumed an epidemic form, and appearances at present are alarming.

SKATING FEVER.—Five hundred persons, of both sexes, were conveyed by Railroad, last Saturday, from Worcester, Mass., to Washaeum Pond, on a skating excursion.—An equal number from Fitchburg, &c., met them. There were a thousand skating on the Pond at one time.

JUDGE PARKER has written to the President declining the proffered appointment of U. S. District Attorney, and will continue the practice of his profession in Albany.

SAD ACCIDENT.—On Thursday evening last, Deacon Goddard, an old and highly respected citizen, while passing along the sidewalk a little distance east of the Bushnell House, caught his foot on the end of a plank walk and fell and broke his leg.—Beloit Journal.

Mr. Fillmore's Union-Saving Letter.

From the Albany Evening Journal.

The letter of MF. Fillmore to the N. Y. Union meeting, in concise language and a frank, manly spirit, places the whole question before the country in its true light.—Such a letter, at such a crisis, will do much towards stripping the veil away from eyes which it is intended, by false issues and false pretences, to blind.

The following extracts from Mr. Fillmore's letter rebuke, justly and severely, the canting, hypocritical doughface mouthings of O'Connor, Hunt and Dix:

After a severe struggle which threatened the integrity of the Union, Congress finally passed laws settling these questions; and the Government and the people for a time seemed to acquiesce in that compromise as a final settlement of this exciting question; and it is exceedingly to be regretted that mistaken ambition or the hope of promoting a party triumph should have tempted any one to raise this question again.

But in an evil hour this Pandora's box of Slavery was again opened by what I conceive to be an unjustifiable attempt to force Slavery into Kansas by a repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and the floods of evil now swelling to overthrow the Constitution, and sweep away the foundation of the Government itself and deluge the land with fraternal blood, may all be traced to this unfortunate act. Whatever might have been the motive, few acts have ever been so barren of good, and so fruitful of evil.

The contest has exasperated the public mind, North and South, and engendered feelings of distrust, and I may say, hate, that I fear it will take years to wear away.—The lamentable tragedy at Harper's Ferry is clearly traceable to this unfortunate controversy about Slavery in Kansas, and while the chief actor in this criminal invasion has exhibited some traits of character that challenge our admiration, yet his fanatical zeal seems to have blinded his moral perceptions, and hurried him into an unlawful attack upon the lives of a peaceful and inoffensive community in a sister State, with the evident intention of raising a servile insurrection, which one can contemplate without horror; and few, I believe very few, can be found so indifferent to the consequences of his acts, or so blinded by fanatical zeal, as not to believe that he justly suffered the penalty of the law which he had violated.

I can not but hope that the fate of John Brown and his associates, will deter all others from any unlawful attempt to interfere in the domestic affairs of a sister State. But this tragedy has now closed, and Virginia has vindicated the supremacy of her laws, and shown that she is quite competent to manage her own affairs, and protect her own rights. And thanks to an over-ruling Providence, this question about slavery in Kansas is now also settled, and settled in favor of Freedom. The North has triumphed, and, having triumphed, let her, by her magnanimity and generosity to her Southern brethren, show that the contest on her part was one of principle, and not of personal hatred, or the low ambition of a sectional triumph.

Finally, if I had the power to speak, and there were any disposed to listen to my counsel, I would say to my brethren of the South: Be not alarmed, for there are few, very few, at the North who who would justify in any manner an attack upon the institutions of the South which are guaranteed by the Constitution. We are all anti-Slavery in sentiment, but we know that we have nothing to do with it in the several States, and we do not intend to interfere with it.

And I would say to my brethren of the North, respect the rights of the South; assure them by your acts that you regard them as friends and brethren. And I would conjure all, in the name of all that is sacred, to let this agitation cease with the causes which have produced it. Let harmony be restored between the North and the South, and let every patriot rally around our national flag and swear upon the altar of his country to sustain and defend it.

I am, with great respect,
Your obedient servant,
MILLARD FILLMORE.

Facts to be Remembered.

From the Baltimore Daily Patriot.

The reader should treasure up the following facts respecting the excitement in the House of Representatives at Washington.—They are facts to be remembered:

1. Every exciting speech that has yet been made has fallen from the lips of the revolutionary Locofoco members.

2. They have announced their solemn determination to make a revolution, if any man but a Locofoco shall be elected the next President.

3. They continue to insult gentleman of the Opposition, even after they have disclaimed all sympathy with Helper's book.

4. They continue to insult them by openly charging them with complicity in the Harper's Ferry invasion, notwithstanding they indignantly deny having any knowledge of it.

5. They are daily seeking to embitter the public mind of the South against the North and West, with the obvious intent of preparing the South for a revolution.

6. Newspapers from which the South American party had a right to expect better things, are aiding in this wicked work of estrangement, by stigmatizing the whole Northern and Western opposition as a sectional party, when they have done nothing, but sit still and hold their tongues and vote for the men of their choice.

If this country is ever to have peace, it is not to be had by the criminations and recriminations of the various parties in the House upon the question of slavery, but rather by imitating the moderation of the Republicans and Southern Americans, who have exhibited more christian forbearance than has ever fallen to the lot of a like body of men to display under such terrible goadings as those which have signalized the assaults of the Revolutionary Locofocos for the last ten days.

THE POSITION OF MARYLAND.—The Baltimore Patriot talks in this style to the Southern Disunionists:

"The declarations of Mr. Crawford, of Georgia, yesterday, have no terrors for Maryland. Let who may be elected President in 1860, according to the forms prescribed by the laws of the country, she will submit to the election and stand by the Union, even though the Congressional delegation from Georgia, as gravely announced by Mr. Crawford, shall seek to prevent the inauguration of the new President. Nay, even tho' every State in the Union, North, South, East, and West, shall repudiate the election, Maryland will insist on obedience to the federal government, and rally to the flag of the Union."

This is the only declaration by a Southern journal is a keen rebuke to those Northern journals which justify threats of Disunion, unless a President acceptable to the Democracy shall be elected.

Maryland and all the border States are loyal, although they alone, if any, are exposed to the "aggressions of Northern fanatics." The Disunionists in Congress represent a few localities, mainly in the Gulf States, where Northern journals are excluded and Northern sentiments grossly misrepresented and misunderstood. But even there, no serious thought of Disunion is cherished.—There is not a State in the Union which is not at heart loyal to the Union; and not one of the noisy orators who declaim to the contrary could go before the people of his District and stand the ghost of a chance of re-election, if they really believed such a re-election would ensure a Dissolution.—Albany Evening Journal.

NEW METHOD OF REPAIRING RAILROAD IRON.—The Great Western Railway Company has introduced a new system of repairing damaged and worn out railroad iron in its shops at Hamilton. The mode of accomplishing this is simple, and is said to be very successful. The Hamilton Spectator describes the process as somewhat as follows:

"A rail which is damaged at the end by the peeling off of a portion of it, or the spreading consequent on hard work, can have a new piece put in in a very short time, and that, too, in such a manner that the rail is better, and will stand more wear and tear than when new. The rail is heated to a white heat, and a piece of common bar iron welded into the damaged spot, and the rail is as good as new. This operation may be performed to a greater or less extent, as the case may be; some of the rails we saw would only require one foot of new iron, while others would require as much as seven feet. The great advantage of this system over that of re-rolling is its cheapness. Messrs. Dunning & Wormly, the contractors for this work, say that they can repair these rails at a cost of $6 per ton, while to re-roll them would cost $30, besides the expense of transportation and duties if they were done in the United States."

NATURAL ACTING.—When Mr. Hardenburgh, of the Howard Athenæum, Boston, was playing his part in the play of the "Iron Mask," on Thursday evening, he suddenly threw up his hands and exclaimed, "Oh, my God! I shall go crazy!" then staggered to the wings, and fell senseless in an apoplectic fit. A physician was soon in attendance, and by his direction Mr. Hardenburgh was conveyed to his residence, Mr. Price reading his part to the conclusion.

SUIT AGAINST THE CITY.—We understand that Edward Gilman, of New York City, has sued Sheboygan City in the United States Court—alleging some discrepancy in equalizing the city taxes, personal or real. This gentleman is a large real estate owner in and about this city.—Sheboygan Journal.

A DELICATE TASK.—Amoyt was requested to write a history of France. He replied—"I am too much attached to my masters to wish to write their biographies."

Another Sad Affair—A Mystery Explained—Death of the Victim.

From the New Haven Journal.

Some five years since, a beautiful and accomplished young lady, whose father—a resident of Hartford county, in this State occupied a high position both socially and religiously—suddenly announced her determination to leave home, and intimated that she was anxious and willing to take care of herself. The father, who was an austere man, given very much, it is said, to severity in his own family, attempted to dissuade her from her purpose, and even threatened her if she carried out her determination. This did not affect her plans, and, with the assistance of one of her brothers, she left home, and until last summer, her friends have known nothing of her whereabouts. Some years after her disappearance, the father was taken sick and died, leaving considerable property, a part of which was left to the absent one; but all attempts on the part of her friends to find her place of residence were unavailing and she was given up as dead. A few months subsequent however, to this effort on the part of her relatives, she made her appearance in her native village, and was kindly received by all.

She remained at home a few days, taking care to receive her legacy from her father, and left again without giving any information as to her place of destination. Since that time the suspicions of the family have been awakened by a report that she had been the victim of seduction by a somewhat noted teacher of music, who was formerly employed in that vicinity, and renewed efforts were made by her relatives to learn the place of her concealment, but without success. Nothing could be gained concerning her, except that she lived in the vicinity of Boston under an assumed name, until last week, when information was received that the girl in question had just died at South Boston, and that her remains were subject to the demands of friends, who immediately took measures to remove them to her native town, and also to learn the sad story connected with her death.

It appears that the winter previous to her disappearance, she made the acquaintance of this music teacher, and being a fine musician herself, soon became intimate with him. By being represented as a single man, she very soon became attached to him, and, as the sequel shows, was disgraced. She was too proud to tell her troubles, and rather than submit to public disgrace consented to leave her home, as she undoubtedly supposed, to become a wife. A few months after her disappearance it appears she became a mother and has since lived in seclusion at South Boston, under the name of Mrs. Jones, wife of George Jones of Boston. The villain who had accomplished her ruin, and who was, at the time a clerk in that city, was a married man and supported a wife in Massachusetts in the vicinity of Springfield.

After accomplishing her ruin he visited her seldom, until the death of her father, when, knowing he had property, and supposing, of course, that she was entitled to her share, again paid her frequent visits, until he persuaded her to return home and secure her money, promising then to give her a splendid house in the vicinity, where he was soon to remove. She, like a believing woman, made the journey, received her estate, and returned again to her seclusion, where he met her and received her property, promising in a few days to return and take her away, which he of course did not intend to do. He left her and has scarcely visited her since. Her desertion, by one she supposed to be true to her, operated upon her health and ended last week in her death. She ingered a week hoping to see him who had betrayed her once more, but consumption, that flattering, yet fatal disease, had marked her for its victim. She died on Tuesday, and on Saturday, her remains, accompanied by an interesting boy four years of age, were brought once more to her native village.

A few days previous to her death she called some of the members of the house, where she boarded, to her room, and requested them to turn papers in her possession at once, in her presence, in order to prevent, if possible, any facts of her fate from ever reaching her friends, whom she had disgraced.—This was done and but for an old Album, which contained many good wishes from her former school-mates, with her own true name and place of residence upon the margin of the book, her history would never have been known. Her child she gave to a Catholic school at South Boston, and disposed of her body to the same parties, and died with the name of him who had so cruelly wronged her upon her lips. Her funeral was largely attended Sunday afternoon. Her seducer, who has until lately resided in the vicinity, suddenly decamped a day or two since, but will doubtless be arrested, as the officers of justice are upon his track.

Green Bay Items.

From the Advocate, 23d.

THE fine weather, which lasted all through last week, proved a "weather breeder," and ended on Saturday night with a furious snow storm from the North.

NEW COUNCIL.—The Baptist Church, which holds its meetings in the school-house in Howard, is about building a church edifice in that borough. The work will be commenced immediately. As it is a hard matter in those troublous times to build churches, it is hoped that all will bear a hand, either in money, work or materials, that the building may be ready for service by June next.

GOOD NEWS.—We learn, several weeks since, that Messrs. Eddy & Balcom, of Stiles, had made an assignment, but that their assets exceeded their liabilities by at least one half. We are now happy to state that the little time asked for has enabled them to arrange their matters, and that they are again doing business in their own name, and are "sound" as a nut. We learn they are doing as heavy a business in the woods, this winter, as they have done in any previous year.

RAILROAD MEETING.—A very earnest and spirited railroad meeting was held at the school house in Howard on Wednesday night of last week. It was addressed by Messrs. James H. Howe, John C. Neville, J. S. Fisk, U. H. Peak, Mr. Chinnery, Capt. Chappell and several others—all of whom expressed the right views and seemed impressed with the practicability of obtaining a railroad connection with the southern lines within a year.

Mr. Howe, who made the principal speech of the evening, was of the opinion that the Road could be graded for $1200 or $1500 a mile, and made ready for the rails; that this amount could be raised by voluntary subscriptions in cash, material and labor, and by direct taxation upon the property benefitted; and that, with a track so prepared, the iron and rolling stock would come of itself from some company already in operation. He advised work and not talk, and urged that the people of Howard and vicinity had it in their power to accomplish it if the first step be taken at once.

The meeting was entirely harmonious except as to a minor question of the feasibility of annexing adjacent territory to the Borough, in order to bring a larger area under taxation. That is a matter, however, which can be adjusted satisfactorily all around and need not be magnified into an obstacle in the way of enterprise.

Without stopping to debate the question of locality, we believe it to be the interest of the people of the entire County to come forward to the support of any project which seems to promise the getting of a railroad into the vicinity, whether on one side or the other. The enhancement of values which a railroad brings to property just around its terminus and depot, is a mere drop in the bucket beside the thousands upon thousands of dollars of increased value which it brings to the acres of many miles in every direction, whose products are at once furnished with a cash market and a generous one by that road.

Let there be no east side or west side—no county and no city. Let us have one unanimous donation party—one tremendous railroad bee, to which all are invited, and to which all will come.

RACINE BUILDING ASSOCIATION.

NOTICE OF ADJOURNMENT.

THE DIRECTORS GIVE NOTICE TO the Shareholders and the Public that over one half the Shares are now taken, which, considering the amount of labor required to make it known, is a very gratifying result; but it is desirable that the whole should be taken before the Directors call, and therefore a postponement for a short time is necessary. The Directors respectfully solicit the assistance of the Shareholders and the Public to enable them to make a distribution on the 16th DAY OF JANUARY NEXT, to which day it is postponed. Many persons are now taking Shares, which, if Shareholders, wait till the last day before they invest, if all should do so, the embarrassments in the way of a full and distribution would be manifest; this practicable, must be apparent to every one. We hope no further postponement will be necessary, and that all intending to become Shareholders will do so at once. For Shares and Programmes apply to JOHN DEARBORN, or JOHN ELKINS.

Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia!! Dyspepsia!!!

What is it? How Cured?

DYSPEPSIA IS OUR NATIONAL DISease—weak stomach, feeble digestion, distress after eating, costive habits, bilious condition. How many suffer with it and its attendant symptoms of low spirits, bad taste, coated tongue, obtuspified head, and attacks of the headache! Yet how few know how to cure it! Generally, because the bowels are constipated, resort is had to cathartics, or laxatives. But such a condition was never cured by cathartics, whose only office is to weaken the digestion and impair the integrity of the entire assimilative system.

But HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC DYSPEPSIA PILLS—a simple medicated sugar pill—have cured hundreds of the worst and most obstinate cases.—This is done simply by improving the tone and restoring the integrity of the digestive organs, from which result good appetite, regular habits, a clear head, and buoyant spirits. Such a medicine is a gem, and only requires to be known to be appreciated.

Price 25 cents per box, with directions. Six boxes $1.

N. B.—A full set of HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with Book of Directions, and twenty remedies, in large vials, and morocco case, $5; do, in plain case, $4. Family case of fifteen boxes and book, $2.

These remedies, by the single box or case, are sent by mail or express, free of charge, to any address, on receipt of the price. Address,

THE PUBLIC BLESSING WHICH IS now so universally admitted to exist in Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters, is every day demonstrated by their astonishing efficacy in the cases which they are announced to cure. All the complaints of the stomach and bowels, weakness of the digestive organs and of the system generally, bilious and liver affections, night fevers, head aches, piles costiveness, constipation, rheumatism, scurvy, impurity of the blood, or blotched and sallow complexions, soon yield to their curative properties. A single trial invariably secures them the title of the best family medicine now before the public. For sale by the proprietor, W. B. A CHRISTMAS CAROL.

BY CHARLES DICKENS.

I care not for Spring; on his fickle wing
Let the blossoms and buds be borne;
He woos them anain with his treacherous rain,
And hecatters them ere the morn.
An inconsistent elf, he knows not himself,
Or his own changing mind an hour,
He'll smile in your face, and with wry grimace,
He'll wither your youngest flower.

Let the summer sun to his bright home run,
He shall never be sought by me,
When he's dimmed by a cloud I can laugh aloud,
And care not how rainy he be;
For this darling child is the gladness wild
That sports in fierce fever train;
And when love is too strong, it don't last long,
As many have found to their pain.

A mild harvest night, by the tranquil light
Of the meekest and gentle moon,
Has a far sweeter sheen for me, I ween,
Than the broad and unblushing noon,
But every leaf speaks my grief,
As it lieth beneath the tree;
So let Autumn air be never so fair,
It by no means agrees with me.

But my song I troll out, for Christmas stout,
The hearty, the true, and the bold,
A bumper I drain, and with rosiest and mala
Give three cheers for this Christmas old.
We'll usher him in with a merry din
That shall gladden his joyous heart,
And we'll keep him up while there's a bit or sup,
And in fellowship good, we'll part.

In his fine honest pride, he scorns to hide
One jot of his hard-weathered scars;
They're no disgrace, for there's much the same trace
On the chests of our bravest tars.
Then again I sing 'till the roof doth ring,
And it echoes from wall to wall—
To the stout old wight, fair welcome to-night,
As the King of the Seasons all!

Christmas in Berlin.

From Morris & Willis' Home Journal.

We were fortunate enough to spend Christmas in Berlin. It is the great festival of Germany. For weeks the note of preparation had been sounded. The stores were dressed in their gayest attire, and radiant with glitter and show. The pipe-shops, in a place where everything smokes but the chimneys, form as a matter of course, a gay feature in the scene. These are filled with pyramids of porcelain pipe-bowls, ornamented most exquisitely with paintings, and some of them command most fabulous prices. Here, too, may be observed pipes of the most beautiful amber, amber mouth-pieces, smoking-caps tastefully embroidered, tobacco-pouches braided in gold and silver, and all the paraphrnalia belonging to a habit which has made smoking a national necessity. The confectioners shops are also at this season full of sweet things, made with strange devices; for next to his tobacco, does the German love cakes and sweet meats. Every day on the Linden, at the hour of high noon, you will find these confectioneries filled with well dressed citizens, sipping the luscious chocolate, or partaking of the rich cake, or still richer pastry, which the German baker manifests such skill in preparing.

For weeks before Christmas, these confectionery stores are filled with cakes of every form and device, done in sugar and chocolate. But the most curious and interesting sight of all, is the long array of booths or fair stalls. For several days before Christmas, the large squares, both in front and behind the old palace, and all the streets radiating from them, were filled with thousands of fair stalls. These are wooden booths, roofed over and floored. Nothing can exceed the extensive and varied assortment of children's toys they display. It really seems as if the genius of good gifts here exhibited the rich and varied stores of his treasure-house to the wondering eyes of happy children. Here, too, are immense numbers of Christmas trees, and as they come into town, from the country, the long trains of wagons that bear them, seem to rehearse the story of

"Birnam Wood came to Dunsenane."

Some of these Christmas-trees are merely the rough tops of the fir trees, just as they are brought from the forest; others, again, are planted in large boxes of earth, and surrounded at the foot with little gardens; others are glittering in gold and silver leaf, having the body and branches wound round with silver and gold wire.

On Christmas eve, no house in Germany is without its Christmas tree. It is the hour of rejoicing, and round every hearth stone, from the palace to the cottage, gather bright and happy faces. It is with them the evening when "the Christ Child" enters every portal, bearing in his hands gifts for good children. What a beautiful superstition is that of the Christ Kindchen, or Christ Child! There is then a radiance about the brows of the holy infant, most beautiful in its associations, to the simple, loving heart of the little child. There is an electric chain of sympathy that binds that heart to the Christ Child, who, a child once more, is full of appreciating love for little children.

The following free translation of a German story embodies most beautifully the character of "The Christ Kinchden:"

See, there runs a stranger child, oh, how swiftly, through the city on Christmas eve, to see the bright lights that are flashing from many a Christmas tree. He stops before every house and sees the bright rooms, in which boldly set forth the lampful trees. Woe is to the poor child everywhere; he weeps, and says:

"To-night every child has its little tree—its light and joy. I alone have none; in this strange land I am forgotten. Will no one let me come in, and just afford me room for my cold feet? In all these bright houses is there no corner for the stranger child?"

He knocks at the door, but there is no voice to answer, no kindly hand to welcome. Every father thinks of his own children, and every mother is busy about the gifts. Then said the little stranger, "O dear and holy Christ! I have no father, no mother, if thou art not these to me. Be thou my counsellor and friend, for here I am forgotten."—He rubbed his cold hands, he lingered in the long desolate streets, with his eyes cast up to Heaven. But look! there comes up yonder street, a waving light before him, another child in smooth and white raiment, and hair that clusters in golden ringlets around his fair young brows. How musical his voice, when he says, "I am the Holy Christ; again I am once more a child, as I always will be, to the world's end, on this happy evening. Though all forget thee, I will never forget thee. I offer my protection, as well in the streets as in the lighted houses. Thy light, little desolate stranger, I will cause to shine in the open space, so fair that none in all these brilliant rooms shall be brighter." Then waved the Christ Child his hand towards Heaven, and forth stood, glittering overhead with many branches, a shining tree, glorious with a host of stars. Bright little angels bent down from the branches, and drew up the poor child into the starry space. And so was he ever with the dear Christ Child."

Now, how much more beautiful and significant is this lovely creation of the "Christ Child" than our rude and senseless Santa Claus, who is nothing more than a kind of annual chimney-sweep, half Jew peddler.—The Christmas legends of Germany have thus all an appropriateness to the great festival to be celebrated. It is the eve of our Savior's birth, whose advent Gabriel himself came down to tell; whose natal morn was greeted by angel bests in strains of more than mortal melody. As he grew in years, love for little children was a distinguished trait in his serenely beautiful character. He never allowed an opportunity to pass that he did not bless them, or improve their presence to his disciples by some beautiful allusion.—If he set a little child in their midst, it was only to exclaim, in divine accents, "Unless ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." And when he rebuked his disciples, who would have kept them away, it was only to utter those sublime words, which so often refreshed and strengthened the sinking faith of the bereaved mother, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Therefore, how strikingly beautiful and appropriate to the festive season is the gentle Savior, who, once more on each on each returning Christmas, becoming a little child, comes to every hearth-stone, and places on the shining Christmas tree those gifts which make the heart of the German child so happy, and add fresh lustre to his wondrous eyes. COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY EVENING, December 24th.

Money Matters.

Currency has been more scarce during the past week than either of the two preceding ones, but nevertheless produce and pork dealers have found no difficulty in obtaining accommodations,the Banks discriminating in favor of this class of paper. Exchange remains as heretofore at 1¼ premium on the East,and gold retails at 2 ₱ cent.

The Chicago Tribune of Saturday says:

The money market is working smoothly and for the present there seems no immediate prospect of a stringency or a surp'us. If anything, currency is on the increase, but as yet we hear no serious complaints.—Exchange is in fair supply and sons bankers report it rather dull at current rates, viz: 1¼ ₱ cent. premium. The demand, however, is fair and steady.

Gold 2 ₱ cent. premium, with only a retail demand.

PORK AND PROVISION TRADE.

Receipts of hogs during the past week show a falling off of better than six thousand head as compared with the previous week. This decrease in receipts is not confined to Milwaukee alone, but extends in nearly the same ratio to Chicago, Louisville, Cincinnati, and in fact all the principal packing points throughout the West; and in consequence, prices have advanced fully 25 to 40c since the date of our last weekly report, and the market closes very firm at the following range of prices: $5,35@5,50 for light; $5,65@5,75 for medium, and $6,00 for heavy averages. The daily receipts for the week have been as follows:

Monday	1,861 head.
Tuesday	2,110 "
Wednesday	997 "
Thursday	440 "
Friday	418 "
Saturday	969 "
	6,525
Previously received	36,891 "
Since beginning of season	41,416 "
Same time in 1858	22,301 "
Increase this season	19,015 "

One of our packing houses, Messrs. LAYTON & PLANKINTON, have cut since the commencement of the season over 18,000 head, and have now on hand between 4,000 and 5,000 head. They cut and pack about 500 a day.—Mess pork, influenced by the advance in hogs, is very firm and is generally held at $15,50. We have heard of no important transactions in this article during the week. To-day one of our city packers delivered 1,000 barrels at $16, on an old contract. In cut meats there has been considerable activity, and we note sales in the aggregate of 7,000 bulk shoulders at 5¾c, and 9,000 sides at 7¼c—nearly all for Southern markets.

The number of cattle packed here this season by the two principal houses, Messrs. LAYTON & PLANKINTON and E. ROBBINS, is about 6,500 head, which though much less than it ought to be, is considerably in excess of any previous season.

CINCINNATI PORK MARKET, Dec. 22d.—We are having extremely cold weather which must retard the packing business. It will also force forward the hogs remaining in the country, as feeling, with a temperature below zero, is always unprofitable. The receipts to-day, were 9,000 head,which exceeded the anticipations of operators, but the market, notwithstanding, maintained a steady tone. Purchasers were found for nearly all that were offered, at $4,25@4,50, but it required some straining to reach the outside figures with 200 lbs averages; some lots averaging 230 lbs were held at $4,75,but buyers did not care to talk about anything over $4,50. We quote 160 to 170 lbs averages at $4,25; 180 to 190 do $4,40@4,35, and scant 200 to 210 $4,30@4,50. There was no change in provisions, except that green meats were offered more freely and at easier prices. The fact is, the dearness shows itself mainly in transactions for forward delivery. There are not many cash buyers for any article at current prices Mess pork sold to the extent of about 500 bbls at $16,-5¢, but there was only a moderate demand, though it was held firmly, and $16,75@17 was asked in vain for lots for first class brands. For late February delivery there were sales at $17,50, and for March $18 was asked. About 500,000 lbs bulk shoulders and sides sold at 6¾ and 8¾—for February. Lots on the spot may be quoted at 6@8¾c packed. New bacon sides sold at 7¾c packed. shoulders are held at 7¾c. Lard sold at 10c. There is a fair demand at this price, but holders contend in vain for 10¾c. Green meats closed at 5c for shoulders, 7c for sides, and 7¾c for hams. Flour advanced 5@10c, based on advices from New Orleans, with a moderate demand at $5,30@5,40 for superfine. On Tuesday we mentioned that estimates pinched the stock in this market at fifty to sixty thousand barrels. The quantity was subsequently increased on Change to-day, and the conclusion reached was that the stock is not less than 100,000 bbls, and it may exceed that amount by 10,000 or 15,000 bbls.

A despatch from Cincinnati dated Dec. 23rd, reports hogs quiet. Sales 1,200 at $3 25@3 40. Receipts to-day 3,000.

CHICAGO DEC. 23RD.—The receipts of hogs to-day were 5,991 live and dressed, and the market for both alike heavy, with sales of dressed at $5 50@6 00, and of live at $4 66@4 80. Sales of dressed were:

The provision market was rather easier. Mess pork was in demand at $15 00, but holders generally ask $15 25@15 50. A lot of 200 bbls packed was sold yesterday at $15 25. Cut meats quiet. Green meats in good demand. A lot of 1,000 shoulders was sold at 4¾, and 2,000 hams at p. t. Lard held at 10c, with free buyers at 9¾c.

FLOUR—Receipts 4,204 bbls against 5,256 last week.—Shipments 966 bbls against 4,150 last week The past week has been the dullest one we have had for a long while in the flour market. The difficulties in shipping, owing to the temporary suspension of the Stearnship Line across the Lake, and the unsettled and inactive state of Eastern markets,have conspired to deter dealers from operating to any extent,and moreover holders were not disposed to press their stocks on the market. The recent upward turn which prices took at New York has of course given more firmness to our market, but caused no other change. The following are the prices talked of by dealers: $4,25@4,50 for common to good country Extra, and $4,62@5,00 for city ditto. The only sales we heard of are 500 bbls "Stone Mills" Spring Extra at $5 for delivery at mill; 100 bbls "Silver Sheaf" do at $4,50; 50 bbls of another prime brand at $4,40; 50 bbls mixed country brands at $4,25; 75 bbls do at same price, and 50 bbls "Neenah Mills" do at $4,30—all in store.

Receipts, though light, are much larger than ever before during the winter months and sellers generally find a ready market at the current prices, especially for the better grades,the supply being scarcely sufficient to meet the increased milling demand. GOVERNOR VALVES,

FOR REGULATING

Governor of Steam Power in the world,and like all really great inventions, the most simple. Manufactured by Judson & Gardner, Rochester, N. Y., Selye Buildings, near R. R. Depot.

CAUTION TO INFRINGERS.

Patents issued in the United States, Nov. 5th, 1859. Reissued, Jan. 4th, 1853. Second Patent, March 4th, 1851. Patented also in Great Britain and the Canadas, by the Inventor.

This improvement consists in making regulating valves to open with a rapidly increasing ratio of opening to increasing the width of the opening made in the valve—or by accelerating the opening motion of the ordinary valves in use—or by combining increased width of opening, with accelerated motion. My patent Valves and Governors are so arranged as to give the resistance to the piston in motion, (or reaction of the steam,) at the moment of open full, just the exact amount of aperature necessary to counteract that resistance; and from the moment the condition of equipoise ceases to exist, notwithstanding that the action of the governoris continually decreasing in its effects,

Governors reverse the action of valves combined with governors, as heretofore used. And as this effect can be produced by many different mechanical devices, (apparently not similar, but really identical with my improvement,) by which infringers have imposed upon the public, I therefore caution all interested persons interested, to examine carefully all alleged improvements in valves or governors, to see if the principle involved in my patent is not infringed.
